JOSE BILLINGS.

The remains of the late Henry G. Shaw are dally expected from California, and the question has been raised whether his epitaph should not be in the phonetic spelling in which his utterances appear. Both Artemus Ward and Josh Billings Both Artemus Ward and Josh Billings are illustrations of a style of humor in which few succeed, though they had many imitators; and they also show how profitable such a gift can be made. Artemus Ward died early, and yet he had received enough to make him rich had it for the week ending Friday, been properly cared for. Josh Billings, been properly cared for the week ending Friday, been properly cared for the week ending Friday.

Native to let the regular ministers present responsible the regular ministers present responsible wille, who have been attending the fair which few succeed, though they had announced that he expetted to say some announced that he expetted to say some pretty hard things this evening, and they were harder because the people were not will posted and had not when the ministry. He wanted it understood that he was not an ordalized minister, and if he was not an ordali money slip through his fingers, leaves $100,000, and perhaps more. These men, also, were profitable to their publisher (Carleton), who, no doubt, cleared nearly as much as the authors. Humor has een more profitable in America than in Great Britain, where, indeed, jokes seldom turn into money. The three funny men of the present day—Artemus Ward, Josh Billings and Mark Twain received a golden tribute from the pub-Hood and other wits of London, whose poverty and other misfortunes have so often awakened the sympathy of nearth against water.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's declara tion that "dressmaking comes by nature" is widely at variance with the idea that was happily developed by Dr. Isaac Watts in the following lines:

Why should the garments made to hid Our parents' shame provoke our pride. The art of dress did ne'er begin. Till Eve, our mother, learned to sin.

When first she put the covering on Her robe of innocence was gone. And now her children wilnly boast In the sad marks of glory lest.

But in more ways than one the theology of Watts is old as compared with that preached by Beecher, though nominally cast in nearly the same mold to begin with. But, then, Watts had not the adantages that the Brooklyn philosopher has enjoyed. The diocese of New York of the Protest-ant Episconal church is in receipt of a benefaction from Miss Catherine Lord-lard Wolfe, in the shape of a pledge of $75,000 when needed to begin the erec-tion of a clergy-house—a benefaction which the standing committee of the trus-ties or the general theological seminary followed by a favorable offer of a site A MUNIFICENT GIFT followed by a favorable offer of a site within its grounds at Ninth and Tenth avenues and Twentieth and Twenty-first streets. Wall Street Beal Estate.

Correspondence of the Gazette.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Gallatin National bank has purchased the adjacent lot (30x100), paying $400,000. This gives one an idea of the value of Wall street property. The Gallatin bank was founded in 1829, and paid for its plot $12,000, or $800 per foot front. The property is now worth $13,000 per foot. The purchasers will demolish the buildings on each lot, and will erect a grand buistness structure, making a property worth $1,000,000. The Gallatin bank was named in honor of Albert Gallatin, who passed his last days in this city. His son James was the first president of the bank, but he is now dead, and the family is now nearly extinct. Old John Jacob Astor was a great admirer of Albert Gallatin, for both reached America about the same time, and both attained contemporaneous distinction. This led Astor to favor Gallatin's bank with his deposits, and the family has continued this preference to the present day. It is than $1,000,000, and the interest on this sum forms a very handsome perquisite.
